Anton Kostov

Love all things data. Data never lies. Data Engineer
Bulgaria

Summary

I believe that with hard work, my constantly improving level of technology proficiency, interdisciplinary experience (I am familiar with start up like small business operations, but have solid understanding of corporate structures too), dedicated studies and personal qualities, I will manage to actively contribute to the Data society.

I also bring with me strong work ethics, cultural awareness (I lived in the USA and in Germany for a while), relentless desire to learn and find better ways to constantly improve data reliability, quality, and platform usefulness. My solid social skills and problem solving also enable me to support all people deliver the best service they are able to. I'm organized and pay great attention to learn from team members who take time to mentor me.
